DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-10 allowed.
2. Claims 14, 15 and 18 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 11, 12, 16 and 17 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirabayashi et al. (6,766,082) in view of Uno et al. (6,406,196) further in view of Howard (5,114,750)

Regarding Claims 11, 12, 16 and 17, Hirabayashi et al. disclose a waveguide type optical device and manufacturing method therefor where optical structure 1-4 is embedded in ceramic substrate 1-1 inside a trench formed inside ceramic substrate 1-1. Hirabayashi et al. fail to disclose the required makeup of the optical structure/fiber and the required hexane coating. However, Uno et al. disclose an optical device and method for producing the same where in Figs 2 and 3, the required makeup of the optical structure/fiber is disclosed. Furthermore, Howard discloses tungsten and tungsten nitride coatings for metals and ceramics where in column 5 lines 45-65 the required hexane coating is disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the required makeup of the optical material and hexane coating in Hirabayashi et al. as taught by Uno et al. and Howard respectively, in order to have an optical semiconductor device with increased performance.

5. Claim 13 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hirabayashi et al. (6,766,082) in view of Uno et al. (6,406,196) further in view of Johnson et al. (2003/0039843).

Regarding Claim 13, Hirabayashi et al. disclose a waveguide type optical device and manufacturing method therefor where optical structure 1-4 is embedded in ceramic substrate 1-1 inside a trench formed inside ceramic substrate 1-1. Hirabayashi et al. fail to disclose the required makeup of the optical structure/fiber and the required calcium coating. However, Uno et al. disclose an optical device and method for producing the same where in Figs 2 and 3, the required makeup of the optical structure/fiber is disclosed. Furthermore, Johnson et al. disclose a photoactive coating, coated article and method of making same where in claims 34 and 41 the required calcium coating is disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the required makeup of the optical material and calcium coating in Hirabayashi et al. as taught by Uno et al. and Johnson et al. respectively, in order to have an optical semiconductor device with increased performance.
